

BRYAN MAY EXPLAIN MATTERS IN PERSON

CALIFORNIA SITUATION SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED IN WASHINGTON.

MAY AWAIT ARRIVAL

President Asks California Governor if Legislation Can Be Held Up Until Secretary Arrives.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, April 23.—President Wilson today telegraphed Governor Hiram Johnson of California asking him whether the anti-alien legislation could be held up until Secretary of State Bryan could go to California personally, explain the position of the federal government and argue an adjustment of the controversy.

The president's telegram was in response to Governor Johnson's message of yesterday that California desired to co-operate with the federal government to avoid international difficulties. It was as follows:

"Gov. Hiram Johnson, Sacramento, California. "Thank you for your patriotic telegram. We find it so difficult from this distance to understand fully the situation with regard to the sentiments and circumstances lying back of the pending proposition concerning the ownership of land in the state. I venture to inquire whether it would be agreeable to you and the legislature to have the secretary of state visit Sacramento for the purpose of consulting with you and members of the legislature and co-operating with you and them in the framing of a law which would meet the views of the people of the state and yet leave untouched the international obligations of the United States."

WOODROW WILSON.

The same telegram was duplicated to the president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly.

At the white house it was felt that the conflicting advice over the situation made it practically necessary for a representative of the administration to explain the government's exact position in person. There was no feeling, the officials said, that the suggestion would not be welcome.

Johnson's telegram of yesterday was regarded as expressing a desire for the fullest co-operation between the state and the federal government.

Representative Kettner, democrat of California, brought the president some telegrams indicating that while there was a strong sentiment to drop the legislation entirely on account of the approaching exposition and the opening of the Panama canal, there was, nevertheless, also a formidable movement to put through so-called discriminating legislation at this juncture.

At the Japanese embassy today it was stated on behalf of Ambassador Chinda that nothing could be said until the final form of the California legislation had been developed and all reports quoting the ambassador or embassy officials to any other effect were denounced as untrue.

In view of various public reports a formal statement was issued at the Japanese embassy. The ambassador had never hinted at such an alarming outcome of the situation. It was possible war between the two countries. The government confidently relies upon the sympathetic attitude of the American administration and the high sense of justice and fairness of the American people to prevent legislation adverse to the Japanese.

In Japan.

Tokio, April 23.—A resolution addressed to President Wilson and other influential persons in the United States, urging them in the cause of good relationship between Japan and the United States to oppose the passage of the California alien land ownership bill and other measures of similar nature was passed today at a congress of the forty-five chambers of commerce of Japan. A copy of the resolution will be cabled to Washington.

WILSON TO AGAIN VISIT SENATORS IN THEIR DEN

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, April 23.—President Wilson will again go to the capitol tomorrow to consult with any senators concerning nominations he has prepared. With the senate in session the president decided there would be less inconvenience to the senators if he himself went to the president's room and consulted them about prospective appointments than if the senators came to the white house.

BRYAN GIVES IDEAS FOR PEACE PROJECT

Secretary of State Holds Conference With Senate Committee to Discuss Foreign Relations.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, April 23.—America's relations with foreign nations was the subject of a conference today between Secretary Bryan and members of the senate foreign relations committee. Mr. Bryan had been asked to appear before the committee to outline his ideas as to a series of meetings looking toward international peace, but members of the committee had many other questions to put to the secretary of state regarding Japanese, Mexican and British affairs.

A resolution bearing upon the Mexican situation and the Chamberlain isthmian canal treaties with Great Britain, both of which are now before the foreign relations committee, figured to some extent in the conference. Secretary Bryan urged that the senate agree to a general plan of arbitration treaties, his own suggestions being that armaments be limited by agreement among nations and that all question even though of vital character, be submitted first to an arbitration commission before either nation made any steps toward preparing for war.

At the conclusion of a two-hour conference today with the entire membership of the senate committee on foreign relations, Secretary Bryan stated that the committee had given general approval to his outline of a plan designated to bring about international peace. Secretary Bryan said the details of the plan would not be given out until he had talked them over with President Wilson.

The basic idea of a proposed system of treaties as Secretary Bryan outlined it to the committee today is that all international disputes be first submitted to a commission of inquiry and that the report of the commission be made public before the countries would be at liberty to proceed to war. The secretary will lay the plan before President Wilson as soon as possible and perfect its details. The result of today's conference, it was said, assured a favorable reception of any international treaty that may be negotiated by the president and secretary looking toward the limitation of armaments and the investigation of all disputes by international commissions of inquiry.

Secretary Bryan, acting directly at the instance of President Wilson, also endorsed the plan before the committee for purchasing embassy buildings abroad for American diplomats. Senator Chamberlain's resolution for the abrogation of the isthmian canal treaty with Great Britain was referred to a subcommittee. Senator Mark Smith's resolution asking the president for a report on injuries to Americans and American property in Mexico was reported favorably.

LOGGING DAYS OVER ON MENOMINEE RIVER

Drives of Present Season Are Smallest in History of Stream Say Lumber Dealers.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Marinette, April 23.—The days of the Menominee River as a stream for floating logs are nearly over. The spring drives for the present season are now under way on account of the extremely high water are coming along rapidly. The total this year according to Superintendent William Stephenson will not be more than 25,000,000 feet an infinitesimal amount when compared with the hundreds of millions that came down this famous logging stream in former years. The highest point reached was about fifteen years ago when over six hundred million feet came down the Menominee to the twenty-one mills at the mouth. Two years more will probably mark the finish of logging on this stream. Wherever possible local lumber companies are now having their logs brought in by rail as this method is more satisfactory than water logging in every way.

LONG TARIFF FIGHT OPENS IN CONGRESS WITH HOUSE DEBATE

Chairman Underwood Marshalling His Array of Revision Speakers to Rush Through Bill.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, April 23.—The tariff debate was begun today in the house. Many members of all three parties—democratic, republican and progressive—had indicated a desire to make short speeches, and Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, marshalled an array for the completing of the fight for revision.

"Will you hazard a guess as to when the tariff bill is likely to become a law?" Representative Underwood was asked today.

"O, no!" he replied. "It is impossible for any man to guess that accurately now."

Party conferences over the tariff were resumed at the senate end of the capitol today. The senator, La Follette, has been authorized to employ an expert to assist him in preparation of substitutes for many schedules of the bill he will offer on the floor of the senate when the measure comes up.

When the house convened Mr. Underwood asked unanimous consent to close general debate and the house adjourned Monday evening. The republican leaders and Representative Underwood, the progressive leader argued over the division of the minority time between the republicans and the progressives. It was finally agreed to give the progressives five hours of the minority time. Altogether about fifty hours of general discussion in the house will be allowed.

Other parliamentary mix-ups delayed things and it was some time before Mr. Underwood began his speech. The enactment of this bill into law will mark the end of an era in the fiscal administration of this country and the beginning of a new one, he began while democrats applauded. Mr. Underwood discussed the origin of the present "high tariff system," declaring that it was instituted as an emergency measure during the Civil War.

"These unjust war taxes," he said, "have been maintained ever since and those who have amassed fortunes under it have controlled the government except for one brief interval."

Referring to the increased cost of living Mr. Underwood said: "A great proportion of this increase was caused by the abnormally high protection given to the great manufacturing interests of this country under the republican tariff."

Underwood said, however, that the passage of the democratic bill would not immediately be followed by reductions in the cost of living.

"But I believe," he said, "that within a reasonable time after the merchants have disposed of the goods bought under high protective tariff, the people of this country will find the cost of living greatly reduced."

SCUTARI SURRENDERS AFTER A LONG SIEGE

MONTENEGRO TROOPS TAKE POSSESSION OF FORTRESS WHICH RESISTED FOR SIX MONTHS.

MONTENEGRO VICTORY

Turkish Stronghold Captured in Spite Of Opposition of Powers to Continue Struggle—May Complicate Settlement.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Cettigne, April 23.—After a final desperate attack lasting 24 hours the Montenegro troops forced their way into Scutari. The fortress for six months since the middle of October, 1912 has offered a stubborn and heroic defense.

The assault which gave the Montenegro possession of the city, which has been the sole object of their war against Turkey began on Monday night. The Montenegro army took the offensive along the entire front. They surprised the Ottoman defenders by pushing right up to the Turkish positions where they engaged in bayonet fighting.

Turks Fight in Vain. The Ottoman soldiers made a number of counter attacks and tried to drive the attacking force out of their works, but they were compelled to fall back and leave their positions in the hands of the besiegers who received constant re-inforcements.

It was midnight last night when the Montenegrins obtained their footing in the fortress and detachments of the besiegers entered the city at four o'clock this morning.

Resistance Futile.

According to one report Esad Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, recognized the uselessness of further resistance after the outlying key position of Tarakosch had fallen. He is said then to have ordered his troops to cease their defense of the fortress.

Another report says that the Montenegrin commander-in-chief had been negotiating since Monday with Esad Pasha for the surrender of the place.

Use Serbian Artillery. Still another account says the Turkish troops defended the city until the last. Although the Serbian troops did not participate in the final attack their artillery was used by the Montenegrin gunners and it is said that to this fact their success was largely due.

The act of capitulation was signed by the Turkish commander-in-chief after the Montenegrin troops had reached the center of the city.

Effect on Settlement.

London, April 23.—While the capture of Scutari by the Montenegrins is believed by the European capitals to have complicated the situation created by the decision of great powers to include Scutari in the future state of Albania, the opposite view is held in Balkan circles.

There the opinion prevails that the Montenegrins have accomplished the object they have aimed at since the beginning of the war and will find it more easy to accept the decision of the powers and that the latter on the other hand will be more ready to grant her a rectification of her frontier which will satisfy her.

Made Able Defense.

The long defense of Scutari under Esad Pasha was made by an army estimated at about 10,000 men who also had to guard the outlying stronghold of Tarakosch and other important positions surrounding the city. This work has complicated the situation created by the decision of great powers to include Scutari in the future state of Albania, the opposite view is held in Balkan circles.

There the opinion prevails that the Montenegrins have accomplished the object they have aimed at since the beginning of the war and will find it more easy to accept the decision of the powers and that the latter on the other hand will be more ready

COUPON SAVES YOU $9.85.

With It You Get $12 Cyclopedias for $2.35.

It is now possible through The Gazette for every home to have a set of Everybody's Cyclopedias.
Everybody's Cyclopedias consists of five volumes, bound in English cloth,

GROSS OR FEVERISH, HALF-SICK CHILDREN

IF TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH BAD, STOMACH SOUR IT MEANS A TORPID LIVER AND CLOGGED BOWELS.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today, will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.
Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

and contains all the information to be found in similar books of reference. In addition thereto is a treasury of facts and figures showing numerous subjects never before treated in a similar work. Then, there is the chronological table and universal history, which shows the important epochs and events in the annals of the world from the very beginning of history.

The entire work is profusely illustrated with accurately drawn text pictures, magnificent color plates and monotypes, which show the wonderful progress in architecture and invention. All of this is in addition to the usual cyclopedic features. Millions of dollars are spent in exploiting expensive and cumbersome sets that usually sell on the instalment plan at from $50 to $100 a set. The publishers of Everybody's Cyclopedias carefully condensed the information contained in these expensive sets, and the result is a five-volume edition—complete, accurate, authentic and convenient in size.

Next Friday and Saturday these sets will be distributed at the unheard-of price of $2.35 and one coupon. The Gazette guarantees to refund the amount paid by any reader who finds, after receiving Everybody's Cyclopedias that it is not entirely satisfactory and as represented.

Mail orders will also be filled, as explained in the coupon printed in this paper daily.

SUFFRAGET SKIRT HAS SIDE POCKETS

The influence of suffragism, so powerful nowadays, is having its evident effect even upon the garb of women, which generally has held strictly to the feminine in tone. Side pockets, real and unawakened ones into which the wearer can plunge her hands, or tuck anything from sewing materials to loose change, have been sent out by the Paris modistes as the latest word in garmentry.

AFTERNOON GOWN OF LATEST MODE

Tan bengaline silk is combined with Oriental silk for a striking effect in this afternoon costume.
The jaunty little jacket is trimmed with braid straps and novelty buttons at the front and on the high, turned-up cuffs. The sleeves of Oriental silk are mounted in low arm-holes. The small Medici collar is of similar material.

Complicated Situation.
Rome, April 23.—The success of the Montenegrans in taking Scutari has complicated the situation, as Montenegro will undoubtedly refuse to evacuate the city. This will make coercive measures by the European powers more difficult than when they only aimed at forcing Montenegro to abandon the siege.

Squeaked.
"Say, can't you read the sign?" asked the elevator boy.
"I beg your pardon," replied the man with the cigar, "were you speaking to me?"
"It says: 'No Smokin' in the Car.'"
"Does it? Where does it say that?"
"There. Can't you see?"
"But it doesn't say: 'No Smokin' in the Car' there."
"G'wan, you highbrow!"

Wisdom Born of Experience.
"Ah, Jack, old fellow! Haven't seen you since your wedding two year ago. How goes matrimony?"
"Very well, thanks; but, Jove, it's expensive comfort. The dressmakers alone! If I had only known—"

"You would have remained single, eh?"

"No, no—but I would have married the dressmaker."—Judge.

The Real Tragedy.
A newspaper man had been assigned to call up Coroner Coe each morning to find out, for his paper, whether he had any news of the night before.
"Anything doing this morning, doctor?" asked the newspaper man.
"Yes," answered Coe: "a young man died at his home on Blank street a few moments ago."
"What's the sad feature of the story?" asked the reporter.
"Death," answered Coe.

BLOW AT TAMMANY IN CHOICE OF POLK

Another anti-Tammany move on the part of the Wilson administration is seen in the appointment of Frank L. Polk of New York to the collectorship of customs in New York, succeeding William Loeb, Jr. Polk, a lawyer of distinction, is a Democrat of pronounced independence of thought, a trustee of the New York bureau of municipal research, and notably unallied with Tammany Hall.

Don't Look for Health in a Medicine Bottle.

It is Not There. Chiropractic, the New Science The Modern Way to Health.

Strong drugs, poisons and the knife do not do much to bring back health. Science is learning newer and better methods each year and among other things it is learning each year the fallacies of the old time fogey methods. The theory of Imlay, the Chiropractor, is to let Nature make you well; if your spine is in perfect shape you can throw off all disease. If the cause of your disease is removed you'll get well. Chiropractic removes the CAUSE of disease.

Weak Heart.
Illustration No. 11. Prominent business man found he had a weak heart and that the beats were not regular. He sold out his business expecting to retire. He finally called on me and I found the second and fourth dorsal vertebrae subluxated. By replacing these vertebrae I removed the pressure from the heart nerves which restore it to normal, and he is now well. This man went back into active business.

Catarrah and Deafness.

Illustration No. 5. A young man was deaf and suffered with catarrh for many years. I adjusted the fourth vertebra of his neck, freed the nerves to his ears, nose and head and he is now free from catarrh and deafness.

Life is a God Given Privilege; Keep it Perfect, Chiropractic Points the way.

The manner in which inorganic matter, food if you will—is changed to organic, living tissue, is the ever present miracle of life. No scientist has yet explained the manner of this change; no scientist ever will; it is one of the things hidden in the mind of the Creator.

This much we know; that it comes from the conjunction of this inorganic matter, after it has been acted upon by the various organs of digestion, with Life Stimuli from the brain. Very much in the manner in which a piece of cold metal is made a live magnet by being charged with electricity, so is this food stuff carried by the arteries to points where it is touched by the nerves and given its life stimulus.

Life and health then must depend just as much upon the volume of this current carried by the nerves as upon the food carried by the blood.

Place pressure upon the nerves in any way and this volume of life stimulus must suffer.

CHIROPRACTIC is the science that recognizes this fact. It is builded upon the basis that there is but one point where a nerve may be impinged, and that at its junction with the great nerve column, the spine. At all other points they lay free and undisturbed.

A PERFECT SPINE THEN MEANS PERFECT HEALTH; AN IMPERFECT SPINE MEANS DISEASE.

Chiropractic adjustments relieve spinal nerve pressure and allow the normal volume of nerve force to flow to the diseased organ and health returns.

We will examine your spine without charge. You owe it to yourself to know the cause of your suffering.

The Cleveland Naps will have their full pitching strength on tap within a few days, for the first time this season. Fred Blanding, the team's best right-hander, who was laid up for a long time with an abscess in his foot and whose arm consequently got out of condition, says he is about to get back in harness. Jim Baskette has been witness in a trial at Athens, Tenn., and is about to be released. He has worked out with semi-pro teams daily.

Mark Hall, a recruit from Omaha, pitched the opening game of the season at Detroit and beat the St. Louis Browns. It was the first time in his career that a Tiger manager had let a recruit officiate in an opener.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are accused of showing the same lethargy this season that kept them down last season. Critics all agree that the Pirates form the best team in the National League, and most of them think that if the Bucaneers can show the proper amount of fire they will come out in front.

The Georgia Federation of Labor has decided not to adopt a resolution proposed to condemn the methods of organized baseball, as emphasized by the case of holdout Ty Cobb.

In one respect at least the New York Yankees, now headed by Frank Chance, have obtained a better start this season than last. Harry Wolverton had to go fifteen battles against the Red Sox before copping a victory, whereas the Yankees with Chance turned the trick in their second game with the world's champions.

If the youngsters Wickoff, Bush, Penick, Houck, et al. whom Manager Connie Mack has gathered to do burling duty for the Philadelphia Athletics, perform this season as they did in the spring training trip and in the exhibition games against the Phillies, there will be some strenuous doings necessary to pry the Athletics away from the pennant pole in October. The rest of the club has certain superlative strength and the test will come in the first assistants to Bender, Plank and Coombs.

After a year's absence from active participation in baseball, Sam Leever, once a pitching mainstay for the Pittsburgh Pirates, will get back into the sport again this spring. He has been appointed manager of the Covington team in the Federal League. He has been keeping in good condition and expects to play as well as to manage.

The St. Louis Cardinals in their home park have taken up the innovation introduced by Uncle Ben Shibe at the home of the Athletics in Philadelphia, of giving score cards away free. The prediction is made that it is only a matter of time before the score card charge will be abolished all over the country.

Larry Lajoie, veteran second baseman of the Cleveland Naps, will be good for at least five years more, declares Manager Joe Birmingham. Larry is daily performing batting and fielding stunts which would be sensational in a man ten years his junior.

Rumor has it that Manager George Stovall and Owner Bob Hedges of the St. Louis Browns are on the outs. Hedges would have interfered more in team policies than Stovall liked. Hedges, according to the report, will release Stovall to the ranks any time the Browns strike a bad slump.

JACK JOHNSON GETS FINE FOR SMUGGLING

Loser of Two Federal Actions Against Negro Pugilist Is Disposed of Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, April 23.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, was fined $1,000, by Judge Carpenter in United States district court today after charges of smuggling a $2,000 necklace had been dropped and the heavy champion had pleaded guilty to charges of concealing from federal officials the fact that he had the jewelry in his possession. The necklace was declared forfeited to the government and probably will be sold at auction. The actions winds up the lesser of two cases which federal authorities have against Johnson. He is still to come to trial on an indictment charging violation of the Mann law. The necklace was brought into this country when the pugilist and his first wife, who afterwards committed suicide, returned from a European tour.

CENTRAL LEAGUE MAGNATES HOPEFUL OF SUCCESS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Terre Haute, Ind., April 23.—Under conditions that appear to be anything but encouraging, the Central League of Baseball Clubs bravely lined up today for the start of the championship season. Weather conditions seriously handicapped every club of the league in the spring practice work, while one of the two plants were all but destroyed by recent floods. Notwithstanding these drawbacks, President Heilbroner and the club owners take an optimistic view and predict that the league will pull through the season successfully. Since the close of last season, the league has been completely reorganized. Seven of the twelve clubs of last year have been dropped. Those remaining are Ft. Wayne, Dayton, Springfield, Terre Haute and Grand Rapids. Evansville has been added to these five to make a six-club circuit. The schedule calls for a season of 140 games, with September 7 as the closing date.

When the World Went Mad Before A Child

THE shadow of a deep interior, the softened gleam of light and colour, the shimmer of silk and satin, a sea of faces turned to a point and there—

A boy, delicate and small, with a coat of blue, his arm raised like an emperor's, a tiny baton in his hand. For an instant there is a silence, overpowering, absolute, and then, like the beginning of a dream, an ecstasy of sound comes from the still orchestra—a sound like the flowing of a magic river.

It was all a hundred years ago. It was Mozart, the boy, the genius, conducting his own opera in the famed Salsky at Milan. Mozart at the high splendor of his career.

Women fainted in ecstasy. Men wept in enchanted joy. The soul of Italy was welcoming, in the highest shrine of the world's music, the greatest master of its melody. And the soul of Italy rose up to cast jewels and flowers upon him. It was the supreme tribute to a fruit child that was a genius.

What would you give to have a child Mozart? How do you know you have not already spoiled one?

How? By accustoming his ear to the untrue sounds of a poor piano, so that it can never appreciate true sounds.

The ear, you see, and the brain are connected with the most delicate nerves; and the brain cells become vitiated by bad sounds, or by bad association.

If an uneducated Englishman once replaces his "H's" he can never correct them. His ear, or rather the brain cells which connect, have been crippled. And if you train your child to the untrue sounds of poor pianos, he can never learn true ones. You have crippled him. With a you are safe. Franz Liszt, greatest of all pianists, endorsed a Hallett & Davis piano, composed of the Blue Danube waltz, commended it. He has received a Papal medal from His Holiness Pope Pius X.

And, remember, it is our business to show you how to give your child a chance and how to afford it.

ATTENDED HEARING ON SERVICE RULES

Mayor James A. Fathens, Councilman R. M. Cummings and City Attorney Dougherty in Milwaukee.

Mayor James A. Fathens, Councilman R. M. Cummings, and City Attorney W. H. Dougherty and P. H. Korst of the Milwaukee Electric Company returned last night from Milwaukee where they attended the hearing conducted by the railway commission of Wisconsin on the proposed new rules governing the service provided by public utility companies, particularly those furnishing gas and electricity. Representatives of nearly every city in the United States where these products are used were present at the gathering, as well as the representatives of state and national organizations of public utility men. A committee appointed by the companies interested in Wisconsin gas and electric plants made a report on the tentative rules and suggested various amendments. R. S. McBride of the bureau of standards at Washington, D. C., told the commissioners of the requirements laid down by the national bureau.

Not long ago two men were discovered looking through a window of a home on South Academy street but no report of the occurrence was made to the police. Close watch will be kept for further attempts of this kind and the consequences to the guilty will probably be more serious than a warning.

COUNCIL ABOLISHES POLICE COMMISSION

Edgerton City Fathers Take Peculiar Action at Last Regular Meeting.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, April 22.—At the last regular meeting of the city council held on Monday evening the council voted by a vote of four to one, one member being absent, to abolish the city fire and police commission. No reason is assigned for this unusual and unlooked for action, but it is understood that it is the intention of the council to assume the duties of the commission themselves.

Owing to the fact that Andrew McIntosh, president of the commission is in Milwaukee this week, there has been no meeting called to discuss the situation or to decide on legal action of any sort. The commission is composed of Mr. McIntosh, president, W. H. Morrissey, secretary, Will Bardeen, A. J. Jensen and Charles Binskie. They receive their appointments from the Mayor.

The Theatre

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL.

The Aborn Opera Company will offer at the Myers theatre on Friday, April 25, what is conceded to be the most gigantic production of Balfe's perennial opera, 'The Bohemian Girl' in English, that has ever been presented on the American stage. The Paris version, specially designed and arranged for the gala season of the French Second Empire, quite different from the old English version with which the present generation of opera goers are familiar, is the one to be seen here.

The Messrs. Aborn promise the same stupendous spectacular presentation that proved such a revelation to theatregoers last season, a double cast of grand opera soloists, corps de ballet chorus, special orchestra and in order to lend realism to the several great scenes, are a band of real gypsies, a troupe of horses, whirlwind acrobats, etc.

The BACK-YARD FARMER

BY PROF. JOHN WILLARD BOLTE

Preparing the Garden.

Any one who has a little patch of back yard can have a vegetable garden this year. By all means make the effort. It can not only furnish you with delicious, fresh vegetables, but you will get health and pleasure out of its care.

If your soil is sandy it will produce the early crops to great advantage, and you can get radishes, lettuce, and similar vegetables several weeks ahead of your neighbor with a clay garden, but the sandy soil does not stand the hot dry weather of the summer months as well as the clay or loam. For this reason it is usually desirable to cover a very sandy plot with several inches of barnyard manure and loam or black muck soil to give it some body and moisture retaining power. This top dressing should be evenly spread on just before plowing in the spring and it should be thoroughly turned under.

A loamy soil is ideal for general garden crops, the sandy loam being a little better in the hot weather. Loam soils do not need any other treatment than manure, every other year, unless the location is too wet. If this is the case, either surface or tile drainage will have to be installed in order to secure the best results.

Clay, either blue, yellow or red, is about the toughest proposition the gardener has to tackle. It possesses plant food in abundance and can be made to bear profitably, but it will need a lot of cultivation and treatment of various kinds before it can be handled with ease. In the first place it must be plowed or spaded deeply in order to break up the solid texture of the soil. Large quantities of well rotted manure containing considerable straw should be plowed under every year, and at the same time it will be well to plow under about two inches of sand, or sandy loam. After the last crop has been taken off any portion of the garden in the fall, sow the vacant ground to some fast growing cover crop and turn it under just before frost cuts it down. All of these factors will assist in loosening a heavy firm soil, allowing better penetration of air and water, and reducing the tendency of the soil to form large hard clots.

Don't strip the soil from a new garden. Turn it under by all means, as it will make the texture of the soil very much better. The greater the amount of decaying plant matter you can incorporate in the soil, the better will be your crop.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Morse, residing at Beloit, found a nest of seven young wolves last week. He sold the head-pieces of the entire family for seventy dollars, the state of Illinois being the purchaser.

The Evening Chit-Chat

WHAT TO DO WHEN TIRED.

WHEN you find yourself suddenly getting very tired long before the end of your day's journey, what do you generally do?

Do you simply endure it as best you can, dragging yourself wearily through the heat and burden of the day until nightfall gives you the right to crawl into bed, too weary to sleep?

Or do you take yourself in hand and do what you can to make yourself more fit?

When I begin to find that logy, tired, life-is-a-burden feeling creeping over me, the first thing I do is to open all the windows and air out. I leave them open a few minutes, going into another room, if necessary. Before I close them I take a few simple deep-breathing exercises.

Try this the next time and see if it doesn't help. Of course, if you can go out for a brief walk, that's better still. Walk five or ten minutes and then go in and talk to some cheerful neighbor a few minutes more. That will rest your mind, and you will find that mind out, trying to do itself to the body. If you can't go out, try lying down and either relaxing or reading some amusing book to make it so you can't spare more than ten minutes. Every little helps a lot at times like these.

Ask yourself about the state of your stomach. It may be that you are hungry. Hunger and weariness are twin sisters, and sometimes we don't know them apart. Again and again when I find myself growing tired, and cross I discover that hunger is the real trouble, and that some hot milk will put me on my feet at once. Remember that hot foods are always more restful than cold.

On the other hand, your stomach may be overloaded. There is nothing makes me feel more logy and sleepy than to have an overloaded alimentary canal. Weariness, the scientists tell us, is simply a kind of poison in the blood, and the alimentary canal steadily pours the most powerful poison into the blood when it is overloaded.

Again, your excessive weariness may be the sign of a cold—or infection, as the doctors nowadays prefer to call it—and it may not be too late to forestall it.

Loosening one's clothes if one is in the habit of wearing tight things is always very restful. If you have been walking a good deal and your feet are very tired, take off your shoes and put on some slippers.

Sometimes rest as well as mind rest can be translated into body rest. I have a friend who always lies down and listens to one or two of her favorite pieces on her phonograph when she feels herself getting too tired. Myself, I have often found some help in looking up at a certain very restful picture which hangs on my living room wall.

But whatever you do, do something. Don't just submit to the torture of traveling the long day's road with the horrible shackles of utter weariness fastened to your feet.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

For once we can talk about eggs and write about eggs—yes, and eat eggs—and not feel that it is a willful extravagance.

Eggs are a typical nitrogenous food in a highly concentrated form, and when served with some fatty material such as bacon, oil in salad dressing or with bread and butter, both starch and fat, we have a perfect muscle and tissue-builder and food containing iron, sodium and phosphoric acid.

The housekeeper who has given little or no thought to the composition of eggs has much to learn of this very nutritive food. While the egg is in common use and probably always will be, a little more thought should be given to the best ways of cooking it.

One of the simple things to remember in cooking is that the albumen in the egg coagulates at a high temperature; hence, to have that soft, creamy consistency, be careful of extremes in heat and too long a time over the fire.

Eggs for cakes and soufflés should be separated, and the whites and yolks beaten separately. The main thing in the white is the amount of air that is beaten into it. The white of the egg never acts chemically upon any of the ingredients with which it is mixed, but the membrane being tough it has the power of sustaining the air beaten into it, then carefully folded into the batter it sustains that lightness to the end, if carefully baked.

Hot or warm water makes a much more tender omelet than milk and there is no reason for failure of these most toothsome articles if one is reasonably careful. Cream mixes well with eggs and makes a delicious omelet or scrambled eggs.

Good Utensils Needed For Success. A good omelet pan is as necessary to success as good eggs. A good steel or aluminum spider, smooth, and the right temperature, will go a long way toward producing good results.

It is practice which makes perfect, and if you fail, try again, for this man or woman who never makes any mistakes in life never makes anything else.

So keep at it until a successful omelet is made.

Cooking eggs at a gallop is very poor judgment. With the large quantity of albumen in eggs that coagulate when cooking at 134 to 160 degrees. Boiling temperature is 212 degrees. Hence, it is easy to see that slow cooking, which leaves the white of the egg soft and creamy instead of hard and leathery, should make them much easier of digestion.

Soft Boiled or Steamed Eggs. Almost every one likes the so-called soft-boiled eggs, but not as we usually have them served to us. They should never be boiled over the fire for two, three or any number of minutes if a soft, delicious egg is desired and I take it that is what most people like. Put four eggs into two quarts of actively boiling water, cover at once and set entirely away from heat. Let stand ten minutes. If six eggs are added let stand fifteen minutes or increase the amount of water—one egg, one quart of boiling water five minutes. All these directions may vary according to the temperature of the eggs, as if they are very cold, of course they would cool the water so they would have to cook longer.

Recipe for Scrambled Eggs. Materials—Four eggs; butter, one tablespoonful; cream, four tablespoonfuls; salt, one-half teaspoonful; paprika, tabasco sauce, four drops.

Directions—Break the eggs into a bowl and beat until yolk and white are well mixed; add cream, salt and paprika or white pepper and tabasco sauce. Put the butter into the double boiler, set over the fire and when melted add the egg mixture. Stir until the eggs are set. Serve with or without toast. Scrambled eggs should never be "cooked" over a direct flame, but always in a double boiler.

Recipe for Hard Boiled Eggs. Put eggs into warm water and bring to the boiling point and then cook below the boiling point for half an hour. A hard boiled egg is very indigestible unless the yolk is perfectly dry.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. LEEBESS THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-two years old and am considered very good looking and have the best of habits. I have been keeping company with a young lady (twenty-one years old) for the past four years. We were engaged to be married last fall, but her parents objected to us marrying so young and our engagement was broken. (1) Do you think it would be advisable for me to try to gain her friendship after our engagement has been broken once? (2) If I could gain her friendship again would you advise us to elope and get married? I love her very much and I can't think of giving her up. (3) Is it proper for a young man to stay after midnight with his lady friend? (4) Would it be proper for a young man to kiss his lady friend good-night? FRANK

(1) Even if your engagement is broken I do not see why you should not be friends. (2) She may still love

you. Ask her. If you are able to take care of a wife, marry her. You are both old enough now. Do not elope however. Have a little wedding and invite your parents to be present. If they won't come, get married anyway. (3) No. (4) Not unless he is engaged to marry her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a hen-pecked husband of thirty-two and have a tyrannical wife who behaves me over the head with a broomstick or rolling pin, jaws me to distraction, and last, but not least, locks me out of my home, for no excuse whatsoever. I've been married for twelve years and have put up with my wife's actions, but she does not prove. Now I think it is time to obtain a divorce. Do you agree with me? I am secretly in love with another girl who is very good natured. If I obtain a divorce, would it be the proper thing to marry her? PEDRO.

Are you sure you have given your wife no cause to dislike you and to treat you ill? Perhaps your secret love for this other girl has something to do with it. Have a talk with your wife. Tell her if she cannot mend her ways and treat you with ordinary courtesy, as you treat her, you will have to divorce her. If she refuses to reform, settle upon her and the children a reasonable amount for alimony, if they need it, and get your divorce. A man can't be blamed for wanting to be rid of a woman who hates peace.

If you get your divorce honestly there is no reason why you should not marry again. But don't engage yourself to the girl before you are free. She wouldn't be the right sort if she would do it either.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Kindly inform me what will make eyelashes grow long without paint? (2) I have small white spots under the skin and around the eye. Can they be removed in any way without leaving scars? (3) My hair is badly split at the ends. When is the best time to cut the end of hair to make it grow? (4) What will clean white tips and plumes? CONSTANT READER.

(1) A little yellow vaseline applied so it won't get into the eyes. (2) Electric treatment would take them out. You would need to go to a dermatologist. (3) Since the ends of hair are split, they should be cut. It is said this should be done when the moon is new, but I doubt if that makes a difference. Perhaps your hair needs more oil. Let it hang free and use a good deal of brush oil. (4) Run this into the plumes, lay away in a box over night, next morning shake out. Repeat process if necessary.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me how to take out stains out of a tablecloth. (2) I am eleven years old and in the seventh grade. Am I in the right grade? (3) Am I old enough to have boy friends? (4) I have blue eyes and light hair what will suit me? PHILIS.

(1) Use Javelle water. You can get it at the drug store. Apply a few drops, then immediately pour boiling water through the stained part. Repeat if necessary. Be sure to rinse well, or the chloride of lime in the Javelle water will rot the goods. (2) You are doing very well, I think. (3) I hope you have a number of boy friends. But I mean just friends, my dear, and not any silly doing. (4) Almost any color, except the very bright ones should become you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Do you believe in women's suffrage? If so, why? (2) If in a very crowded street car there is not room for both man and girl, is it improper for the girl to sit on the man's lap, especially if it is the last car? (3) Is my writing good? CARROTS.

(1) Yes. Simply as a matter of human rights. (2) The man ought not to be so tired that he can't stand while the girl takes the seat. (3) It is legible.

CHAT WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

R. L. S. versus Falstaff

ALFALFA says, "It is better to be eaten to death with rust than aoured to nothing by perpetual motion."

Over against this, Louis the Cheerful remarks, "Restfulness is a quality of cattle."

Rather opposing views are they not; the one truly Falstaffian, the other typical of the quick, nervous R. L. S.

Which is right? Or are they both right? Or is there some standard by which they can be measured to see if there is truth in one or the other?

For after all, they are sentiments we hear echoed about us every day, are they not?

On the one side we are told not to be so restless; so perpetually on the go; on the other, we are urged to do things, to accomplish something. We are told that rest is only a change of occupation.

So which is better, to wear ourselves out with perpetual motion, or to acquire a quality of cattle?

It is a rather interesting thought to pursue, is it not?

Many will settle it according to temperament. The restless, hurrying, striving one will say energetically she would rather wear out than rest. The calm, serene one will retort, "What's the use of hurrying and hustling so? Rome wasn't built in a day."

But can't we find some fundamental truth to help settle the question? What is the primal source of all activity? Mind, is it not?

And can we conceive of mind being inactive, of doing absolutely nothing? If it came to this state, it would be no longer mind, would it? Would it not lose the quality that makes it mind?

There may be varying forms of activity. Mind may rest, in the sense that it contemplates with satisfaction the results of its activity. But to rest in the sense that there is no mental activity whatever, would be the annihilation of mind, would it not?

So, setting up Falstaff's words and those of R. L. S. alongside, this standard, the truth seems to lie with the Cheery One, does it not?

For one cannot be worn to death with activity, for activity is the law. But it must be remembered that though the action of mind in the abstract is harmonious—never too fast and never too slow—activity as we mortals translate it, is sometimes injurious. In enjoying and using the activity that flows from mind, we should at the same time be governed by the law that rules mind—that of harmony, in which there is no excess, no over-action, as well as inaction.

This is the thought we need to keep to the fore in this bustling, hurrying life of ours.

We really can find no excuse for being lazy, but neither can we find authority for over-doing. And the one who glows with righteous self-approval at his strenuous life, or harbors an "I am holier than thou" feeling when he regards his lazy brother, may be as far from the true course in which life should be steered, as the one who sits idle, doing little.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Candies. Taffy—Two cups white sugar, two tablespoons clear vinegar, small piece butter about size of a hickory nut, heat to a gentle boil, uncovered, until it ropes from the tip of spoon. Do not stir. Turn out on well-buttered dishes. As soon as it can be handled, pull. It will be a beautiful white.

The secret of making maple cream candy, I found, was to let it stand after taking from the fire, until almost cold, then while just warm, stir rapidly. This will be a nice light color and will not harden by standing, as it always will otherwise.

Good Cakes. Honey Fruit Cake—Sift two cups flour into a basin, rub one cup butter into it, add two teaspoons cream of tartar, one teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon each of nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon, one pound each of currants, peel, cut fine, one pound each of raisins and raisins, one cup sweet milk; mix well, bake in a slow oven. This cake will keep a long time.

Orange Shortcake—Make rich biscuit crust as for any shortcake. Slice three oranges thin, cover with sugar to taste and let stand.

Sauce: Grate rind of two oranges. Squeeze out juice of these, two oranges with another. Add half as much cold water as you have juice, sweeten, let come to a boil, thicken with half teaspoon cornstarch. Put sliced oranges between layers of crust and pour same over it. Serve hot.

Brown Sugar Cake—Four cups brown sugar, four eggs, one cup sour milk, one cup hot water, one cup butter, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, five cups flour.

Beat butter and sugar to a cream. Add yolks, beat light, then add sour milk into which the soda has been dissolved. Add the flour, with half teaspoon baking powder has been sifted, add beaten whites of eggs, and add last the cup of hot water. This recipe makes one large and one small small cake.

Tailored waists make very good dressing jackets. The first place they show the wear is around the neck below the band. The collars worn now completely hide the patched places and with a peplum as near like the goods as possible one can make a very nice dressing jacket with very little trouble.

I also make corset covers out of the thin white waists. Out of the hand-embroidered waists one can have a very pretty corset cover with little expense—just enough beading and lace to sew along the top and around arm holes.

COUNTY COMMISSION GOVERNMENT SYSTEM MEETS WITH FAVOR

Features of Peavy and Hall Bills Will Be Incorporated in a Single Substitute Measure to Bring Before Assembly.

Madison, Wis., April 23.—Efforts will be made to incorporate the best features of the Peavy and Judson Hall bills for commission government for counties into one bill before the measure again comes up on the floor of the assembly. In yesterday's long debate on this proposed change, considerable friendliness to it was shown by others than the authors of the bills contingent on the adjustment of various provisions to suit the majority. The bills were referred to the judiciary committee largely to get the viewpoint of a body heretofore not officially interested in the plan, as they came from the state affairs committee without recommendation, the committee being evenly divided.

Reviews County Government. Assemblyman Peavy's presentation of the subject showed a careful study of the whole history of the government. He had digested all the data upon it in the legislative reference library, and had prepared charts to afford a comparative review of the work of county boards of both large and small personnel. Invariably, he said, the advantage was with the latter. The work of county boards is largely administrative, he said, and can be done by a body of a few men with dispatch and intelligent treatment.

Both Messrs. Peavy and Hall laid stress on the optional features of their bills, because of which no counties need be prejudiced by outside powers. Both provide for the election of commissioners on a population basis, the county being divided into different districts.

Advantages. The advantage uppermost in the commission plan, according to Mr. Peavy, is the concentration of responsibility in few hands. This had been demonstrated, he declared, in Milwaukee, with a board reduced to nineteen members. He cited experience with smaller bodies in Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and California. In Minnesota in particular, of which he spoke from knowledge as a former long resident of that state, a vast saving in county expense had been made by reduced representation. One method of retrenchment was the cutting of fees for special committee work. Taxes in this state are high, he declared, not so much because state taxes are high, but because county taxes and expenditures are imprudently large.

Mr. Peavy studied the tax commission reports from 27 Wisconsin counties, and after comparing them with Minnesota counties he felt justified in claiming a saving in these counties of $125,000 a year.

Democracy is Costly. The principal argument in favor of the present system, he continued, was the fact that it is representative of the whole county, all local units having their members on the board. But, he added, we are paying dearly for this form of democracy. His knowledge of towns electing supervisors who had never handled more than $100 or $200 in their life, but in the lack of any better men send these representatives to govern their country. On the other hand, he said, he knew several counties which are well governed by reason of the membership in the board of a few public-spirited, sensible business men.

"Why not elect these few men, and then stop?" asked Mr. Peavy. "Why burden them with a lot of incompetents, who get their jobs through political work only? Why not put the government of the county in the hands of these few big men to center the responsibility of them alone? There is waste, carelessness and inefficiency in our present county board government. We need a simpler, more efficient system."

Peavy Substitute Bill. Judson Hall, however, believed the bill was preferable, and debated it at some length. Assemblyman Dolan expressed sympathy with the new plan but liked certain features in the Hall bill, and other sections in the Hall bill better than those in Peavy's. It was this situation which led to the reference of both bills to the judiciary committee, which is expected to report a substitute bill embodying the best features of each.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

By Howard L. Rann.

ONE hundred years ago today, Stephen A. Douglas was born at Brandon, Vermont. Vermont was a small, struggling state at that time as it had not begun to propagate the wooden nutmeg or the sapless maple sugar. Young Douglas attended a country school in the winter and a district school in the summer, becoming so adept that he could steer a corn plow around a row of hardheads with one hand and read Virgil with the other. At the age of twenty he removed to Illinois with one change of shirts and a full set of legal phrases with which he opened a law office in Jacksonville.

Douglas was a small, chunky man who wore nothing on his face but a grim look. He was one of the greatest two-handed orators and self-winding debaters this country has ever produced, and the only time he fell down was when he tackled Abraham Lincoln. Douglas was so much shorter than Lincoln that when he held a joint debate with him he had to have his remarks relayed to Lincoln on a stepladder. He ran against Lincoln several times, but never could lift him higher than the knees. The last time he ran he received twelve electoral votes, which was the best record for a simultaneous clean-up until the melancholy assassination of the republican party last November.

Douglas served a great many terms in congress, in both houses, and was seldom interrupted while on the floor, as he had the unpleasant habit of running long, virulent streaks of English language through an opponent and stupefying him with legal phraseology. He was called the "Little Giant" and has been honored by having several rock crushers and stump pullers named after him.

One of Douglas' favorite diversions was to construe the constitution. He got so that he could construe it in such a manner that nobody was satisfied with it and several people stood up and said they could write a better one themselves. Douglas died in Chicago June 3, 1861, leaving a reputation for bulldog courage that will endure longer than the monument erected to his memory in that city.

Modern Russia.
Russia has been described as "the land of ideals, the land of monotony, the land of variety," and it is also "the home of melodrama." It is other things, too: "The land of melancholy, the land of dancing and laughter, the land of tyranny, and the land of liberty undreamed of by the shackled west." IT PAYS TO BE A READER OF THE GAZETTE

The price of the large Encyclopedia Sets is usually so high, from $50 to $100, that they are invariably sold on the installment plan. The publishers of "Everybody's Encyclopedia" took advantage of these facts, and from a revision of all these various large and good encyclopedias they have compiled all that is good—all that is necessary—and have merely eliminated or condensed that which would be of interest to a specialist or technical student.

MAIL ORDERS

The sets are too bulky to be sent by mail, but out-of-town readers can have them for the $2.35, the set to be sent by express, shipping charges to be paid by the receiver. We positively guarantee, to refund the amount paid by any reader who finds after receiving Everybody's Encyclopedia that it is not entirely satisfactory and as represented.
